Dear Mother,

I am quite well in spite of the hot weather. I am living under canvas and I am going along quite serenely.

I have not heard from Grange lately. I receive the paper quite regularly. I saw another B. last week – one of my own year. He was in the Artillery. One of my seniors has been killed – a lieutenant in the Leicester's. If I pull through I should get my leave this winter. No leave is granted during the summer months of the attack. I hope Percy enjoyed his holiday and he will have had splendid weather if it has been like this out here.

Hoping you are all well, I remain
Your affectionate son
Lewis.
