In 1981 after John Garner, his daughter Nora and her husband Thomas Robinson had died, Harold Wallis transferred the ownership of Well House to his other cousin, Nora's sister, Louise Thompson (nee Garner) who although born and brought-up in Well House had for many years been living with her family in Barrow-in-Furness, Lancashire. As there were no family members remaining in Bletchley, a one hundred and sixteen year association of the Jones/Garner/Wallis/Thompson family was ended when Well House was sold in 1981.
